

June 3, 2011, Daily News

Friday, 03 June 2011

Last Updated Friday, 03 June 2011

China Telecom selects Cisco ASR 9000 series router as the foundation to ...

Wireless Federation

Initially, the Cisco ASR 9000 routers will be deployed in China's developed coastal regions, including Shanghai, Fujian, and Guangdong, to provide the new converged services including IPTV and VPN for users. Cisco will also host a global public webcast ...

Research and Markets: 2011 Global IPTV & Home Theatre Insights

Gamut News

In only a few instances do we see an opportunity for IPTV – the reality is that the telcos will find it pretty tough competing with cable and pay TV operators. However, as PCCW has shown, it can be done. Interesting developments are taking place in ...

Sigma Designs Stock Hits New 52-Week Low (SIGM)

TheStreet.com (blog)

Sigma Designs, Inc. provides integrated system-on-chip solutions (SoC) for the Internet protocol television (IPTV), media processor, connected home and media player, prosumer and industrial audio/video, high definition television, and PC-based add-in ...

Xbox LIVE Diamond with IPTV service for Xbox 360 to debut at E3

LiveSide

But what we know is that Microsoft is rumored to be bringing an IPTV service to Xbox 360 users, codenamed Orapa, by sometime this Fall. Mary Jo Foley from All About Microsoft revealed the "Orapa" codename back in March this year, along with the ...

Xbox Live Diamond TV service getting E3 unveil?

GameSpot

By Tor Thorsen, GameSpot E3 2011: Long-rumored 'Orapa' IPTV service reported to be big part of Monday press conference; Microsoft keeping mum. Today, another rumor may have prematurely revealed a cornerstone of Microsoft's press conference. ... This Man Lost a Bundle Last Week: Tran-sit Failure

Forbes (blog)

The Stanford-educated electrical engineer has headed up the company, which makes computer chips for internet-protocol television (IPTV) set-top boxes (any AT&T Uverse, Verizon FiOs users out there?) and other products, since its start in 1982. ...

Xbox LIVE Diamond with IPTV service for Xbox 360 to debut at E3

LiveSide

But what we know is that Microsoft is rumored to be bringing an IPTV service to Xbox 360 users, codenamed Orapa, by sometime this Fall. Mary Jo Foley from All About Microsoft revealed the "Orapa" codename back in March this year, along with the ...

Microsoft Xbox LIVE Diamond subscription IPTV tipped for E3 2011

SlashGear

Details of Microsoft's E3 2011 launch have leaked, and as expected it's a new IPTV service baked into Xbox LIVE. The company is putting the finishing touches to Xbox LIVE Diamond, WinRumors' source claims, the official name for the much-rumored Project ...

Xbox Live 'Diamond' IPTV Service to Debut at E3 - Report

1UP.com

By Chris Pereira, 06/03/2011 Rumors of an IPTV service for Xbox 360 have been around nearly as long as the system has. Back in 2007 there were hints about such functionality being brought to Xbox Live, and even more recently the notion hasn't gone away ...

GO's IPTV: The next step in the home entertainment revolution

Malta Independent Online

Go will shortly be launching its new service, IPTV – TV over the internet – packed with new features including widgets, HD channels, simultaneous recording, viewer profiles and more. GO's interactive TV will be brought to customers over ADSL using ...

China Telecom will field Cisco ASR 9000 Series Routers

LightWave Online (press release)

China Telecom will use the new equipment to help provide the converged services including IPTV and virtual private networks (VPNs). Cisco touts the ASR 9000's video delivery features, which include content caching and in-line video performance ...

China Telecom selects Cisco routers to support triple-play strategy

IPTV News

The routers are to be initially deployed in China's developed coastal regions, including Shanghai, Fujian, and Guangdong, in order to provide new converged services including IPTV and VPN for users. The Cisco ASR 9000 includes a number of capabilities ...