

June 5, 2011, Daily News

Sunday, 05 June 2011

Last Updated Sunday, 05 June 2011

E3 Rumor: Xbox LIVE 'Diamond' TV Service

GamePro.com - McKinley Noble

Codenamed Orapa, the service combines the company's mediaroom IPTV services and Microsoft's Xbox LIVE services. Microsoft is likely to demo deeper ...

SPT Networks gets ONE on Indonesia's Groovia

OnScreenAsia

Also launching on the maiden IPTV service are the company's Sony Entertainment Television, AXN and AXN Beyond channels. Sony Entertainment Television is a ...

The Hot Seat: Shaun James, GM, XYZnetworks

The Music Network - Lars Brandle

Foxtel has a number of IQ sets that are IPTV-capable and have a return path over the Internet. And there's a number of technological developments coming ...

Rumor Has Microsoft Announcing TV Service At E3

Gizmodo Australia - Owen Good

But Xbox Live “Diamond,” an IPTV service, has been chewed over by insiders for a few months.

GameSpot notes that Reuters reported, six months ago, ...

Microsoft to debut 'Diamond' TV service tomorrow?

Afterdawn.com - Andre Yoskowitz

Codenamed "Orapa," the service will merge Xbox Live with Microsoft's mediaroom IPTV service. Additionally, the company is expected to better integrate Zune ...

Rumour: Microsoft unveiling Xbox subscription TV service at E3

Digit

It's been roughly four years since talk of Microsoft deploying an IPTV service on its Xbox Live gaming platform first started making the rounds. ...

Microsoft may unveil Xbox subscription TV service at E3

TopNews New Zealand - Surjit Singh

Microsoft is already offering IPTV services in some countries such as Britain, where users can watch Sky TV through Xbox Live games console.

"This ISP leads the charge against UBB. They also do not use ...

&Irm;BroadbandReports.com

Lets face it IPTV, Netflix etc is the way of the future. We can't have small caps to use these services. I ordered the 6meg / 1meg package. ...

E3 2011: Microsoft to unveil Xbox Live Diamond IPTV?

Strategy Informer (press release)

Rumors have resurfaced that Microsoft interest in running an IPTV (Internet Protocol television) through the Xbox 360, and this time they'll be announcing ...

GO's technology roadmap: an update and a sneak preview of GO's IPTV

Malta Independent Online

IPTV is clearly an exciting development – but introducing TV over Internet is not just about putting together a commercial offer. ...

Microsoft Touts Continued Xbox Sales Growth, Xbox Live Penetration

&Irm;Gamasutra - Kyle Orland

Microsoft cites the increasing variety of non-gaming entertainment options available through Xbox Live as a key driver of growth in both hardware sales and ...