

June 14, 2011, Daily News

Tuesday, 14 June 2011

Last Updated Tuesday, 14 June 2011

New Cable Technology Promises 4.5 Gbps Download, 575 Mbps Upload Speeds

Gizmodo

... that means you will receive 848 channels instead of 1000, but who's complaining. By the time this proof of concept technology makes it to your cable router, most of us will be watching all our TV on Hulu, Netflix or some other IPTV provider anyway. ...

Cable Show 2011: Arris To Stage Monster DOCSIS Demo

Multichannel News

... demos -- which it claims are industry record-breaking bandwidth levels over DOCSIS -- are designed to illustrate that its C4 platform is capable of handling very high-scale bandwidth that cable operators may need in the future for IPTV delivery. ...

Tivus Teams With InfoValue Computing, Inc. for Its IPTV Middleware Solution

Marketwire (press release)

InfoValue Computing's innovative technology will be integrated in Tivus' HD IPTV entertainment system for the hotel/hospitality industry. Shiva Prakash, Tivus' chief executive officer, stated, "This new partnership provides us with 'behind-the-scenes' ...

Universal Electronics Extends Remote Control Accessories Line-up to Include ...

Business Wire (press release)

... today announced that they will begin offering High-Definition Multimedia Interface (HDMI) cables to cable, satellite, and IPTV operators in North and Latin America. The addition of HDMI 1.3c certified cables to its rich portfolio of products,

...

Etisalat LG tie-up for IPTV service

Moneycontrol.com

Published on Tue, Jun 14, 2011 at 22:27 | Source : PTI Telecom company Etisalat and Korean electronics company LG on Tuesday entered into partnership for delivering content through LG's smart TVs using Etisalat's broadband service in UAE. ...

Etisalat, LG tie-up for IPTV service

MSN India

New Delhi, Jun 14 (PTI) Telecom company Etisalat and Korean electronics company LG today entered into partnership for delivering content through LG's smart TVs using Etisalat's broadband service in UAE. As result of this alliance, Etisalat announced ...

Channel Master Joins MoCA

TradersHuddle.com

MoCA is the technology leader among all pay TV operators in the US with deployments in cable, satellite and IPTV environments. MoCA is a member of CEDIA where the technology is also finding great success in the installer community. ...

ARRIS Unveils 4.5GBps Cable Technology

Hard OCP

Sure, this leaves less room for normal television channels, but as long as people keep watching Netflix, Hulu and other IPTV services, the need for faster connections is more important than a 15th golf network.