

Sept 4, 2011, Daily News

Sunday, 04 September 2011

Last Updated Sunday, 04 September 2011

Espial to provide IPTV services to Vodafone Iceland

Wireless Federation

Espial, a leading supplier of TV software has been signed on by the Icelandic IT company Teymi, to provide Internet Protocol Television Services (IPTV) to ...

M6 Group selects Anevia for multi-site IPTV head-end

Rapid tv news

The French TV group has selected its IP video products for building a multi-site IPTV head-end for channel monitoring, internal distribution, and rights management. M6 Group wants Anevia to supply its headquarters in Neuilly-sur-Seine, with an IPTV ..

Panasonic connected TVs feature FetchTV app in UK, Ireland

Telecompaper (subscription)

UK IPTV technology provider IP Vision said that its FetchTV content portal will be available from this autumn via an app to consumers on Panasonic's VIERA ...

Most Recent Report "IPTV Global Forecast: 2011 to 2015" Published ...

MarketWatch (press release)

LONDON, Sep 01, 2011 (BUSINESS WIRE) -- To support multiple devices in the home, IPTV Operators move into providing better quality and more choices through ...

Telstra Introduces Ad Network

Asia Media Journal

"Telstra Advertising Network's ambition is simple – to be the digital advertising market leader across Sport, Mobile and IPTV. We have a great start with ...

MaxTV adds KlasikTV channel

Telecompaper (subscription)

KlasikTV is an IPTV and cable channel owned by Classicum, which broadcasts 24 hours a day movies, series, animated films and also movies made in the former ...

Serbian broadcaster B92 has stopped broadcasting its TV programs ...

Balkans.com Business News

B92 has informed cable, DVB-T, IPTV and MMDS operators in both countries that it has recalled its distribution agreement for the general entertainment ...

'Appetite for very local TV' is the key to success, says editor

HoldTheFrontPage.co.uk - Sarah Bould

The culture secretary told the Manchester seminar that IPTV, which uses broadband to broadcast instead of digital TV, is still too far away. ...