

Aug. 16, 2012, Daily News

Thursday, 16 August 2012

Last Updated Thursday, 16 August 2012

UK's Lords calls for IPTV

Broadcast Engineering

The UK's House of Lords has put its weight behind a wholesale switch from digital terrestrial to broadband for public service broadcast delivery, even though this ...

Malaysia's REDtone sells IPTV division

IPTV News

Malaysian service provider REDtone is quitting the IPTV game in order to focus on its broadband and telephony customers, according to local financial daily The ...

Logitech camera lets you Skype on your TV set

Broadcast Engineering-Aug 14, 2012

Logitech and Skype have announced the Logitech TV Cam HD, a high-definition TV camera with a built-in Skype capability that operates on any HDTV set with ...

UTStarcom's income data falls back heavily in Q2

Morning Whistle

(NASDAQ: UTSI), a provider of IP-based network solutions in iDTV, IPTV, Internet TV and broadband for cable and telecom operators, reported on August 13 its ...

Google Unveils Premium TV Packages

World Screen

KANSAS CITY: The lineup for Google's new IPTV service Fiber TV includes three premium add-on packages, including a Starz bundle and one that features ...

Africa/Middle East News

Satellite Today (subscription)

European Communication Services (ECS) has partnered with OH TV to offer joint broadcast and IPTV services to the African broadcast market and various ...

Positive outlook for Russian pay-TV

Broadband TV News

According to data produced by J'son and Partners and published by Tass Telekom, the Russian pay-TV market was already one of the largest in the world as of the end of last year, with 29.6 million households receiving digital cable, satellite or IPTV ...

Telekom Austria sees IPTV boost in tough market

DigitalTVEurope.net

Telekom Austria's A1TV service saw an 18.1% uptick in subscribers over the first half of this year, taking its total to 206300. Its bundled fixed-line customers passed the one million mark. Overall, however, Telekom Austria continued to suffer from ...