

Feb. 19, 2013, Daily News

Tuesday, 19 February 2013

Last Updated Tuesday, 19 February 2013

Russian IPTV provider using Moto multi-room gear

FierceIPTV

Russian IPTV provider VimpelCom has sought out Motorola--currently in the throes of being sold by Google (Nasdaq: GOOG) to Arris (Nasdaq: ARRS)--to help its Beeline TV service subscribers better manage their home networking needs. "Our customers tell ...

Tulane, Cox partner on IPTV service

FierceIPTV

Although it may seem a bit surprising that the university would choose a cable operator as its IPTV partner--or that a cable operator would be working on a project that replaces RF with IPTV--that's not the case, according to Derek Toten, director of ...

TiVo partners with Flingo; Colombian provider ETB to launch IPTV

FierceIPTV

13 that Q4 2012 operating revenues declined 1.5 percent year-over-year to $4.58 billion, reflecting the trend of declining legacy services revenues being offset by an increase in both next-gen business and consumer broadband and its Prism IPTV services.

Sweden's Com Hem upgrades TV to TiVo

IPTV News

The analyst team at Informa Telecoms & Media (publisher of IP&TV News) currently takes the view that Sweden's advanced fibre networks mean that IPTV will ...

Satellite TV homes in Germany reach 18.07 mln - study

Telecompaper (subscription)

Digital terrestrial TV (DVB-T) homes reached 2.05 million, up by 220,000 from 1.83 million homes in 2011, with the number of homes using IPTV services rising ...

Freeview casts doubt on IPTV

C21Media

The MD of UK DTT platform Freeview has dismissed the threat of IPTV to linear television, saying the latter will dominate viewing habits for the "next 10 to 20 years". Mass audiences in the UK "are still watching television at the time it's broadcast ...

YOU On Demand expands from cable to IPTV in China

FierceIPTV

The company, which claims to be the leading PPV and VOD platform service in China, signed a distribution agreement with Tianjin IPTV to cover households across 16 major districts and counties in the greater Tianjin metropolitan area. The service will ...