

June 16, 2013, Daily News

Sunday, 16 June 2013

Last Updated Sunday, 16 June 2013

Asia now dominates IPTV globally

IPTV News

Despite IPTV gaining its first footholds in Western Europe and North America over a decade ago, Asian telcos now account for around half of the world's IPTV subscribers, according to SNL Kagan. After analysing the world's 20 largest IPTV providers ...

Logosoft adds Pink TV channels to IPTV platform

Telecompaper (subscription)

Bosnian operator Logosoft has announced the addition of 28 channels from Serbian commercial broadcaster Pink TV to its IPTV platform. As a result, the Super TV service will carry a total of 30 channels from Pink TV, as it already was broadcasting the ...

Flexibility, innovation and realism needed in superfast broadband pricing

Rapid tv news

Operators face important decisions on how to price superfast broadband as next-generation access (NGA) rollouts gather pace to support applications such as IPTV, new research from Analysys Mason has suggested. The analyst's multi-play pricing ... JB&A Partners with Exterity for InfoComm 2013

DigitalJournal.com (press release)

JB&A, experts in media management and distribution announced it will be showcasing powerful new IPTV video distribution products and streaming solutions at the InfoComm trade show June 12-14, 2013 at the Orange County Convention Center, Orlando, ...

Amino wins European IPTV deal

Business Weekly

A major south eastern European network operator has taken Cambridge technology to accelerate deployment of IPTV across several countries. Amino Communications, a Cambridge UK leader in Internet Protocol Television and its digital content delivery ...

100mn more IPTV households by 2018

IPTV News

There will be just shy of 1bn pay-TV households worldwide by 2018, with IPTV accounting for around 167mn of them, according to UK firm Digital TV Research. Of little surprise to industry watchers, China is expected to have the most pay-TV subscribers ... CBeebies Slated for Rollout in China

World Screen

MusicBox. SHANGHAI: IPTV platform BesTV New Media is set to roll out a CBeebies programming block in China, delivering shows like Teletubbies and Andy's Wild Adventures to preschoolers, following a deal with BBC Worldwide. Globo TV International ...