

July 1, 2013, Daily News

Monday, 01 July 2013

Last Updated Monday, 01 July 2013

Euronews: Ericsson Buys Media Services Firm

Light Reading

Red Bee Media provides a broad range of media asset management services to broadcasters, video producers and IPTV service providers, including BT Group plc. The acquisition is the latest move by Ericsson to enhance its role in the broadcast services ...

Ericsson acquires Red Bee Media, enhances broadcast TV capabilities

FierceTelecom

Ericsson (Nasdaq: ERIC) is adding another piece to its growing IPTV services portfolio by reaching an agreement to acquire UK-based media services company Red Bee Media. Financial details of the acquisition were not revealed. Over the past year, ...

Elemental powers Teleste OTT solution

IPTV News

The agreement sees the creation of a complete multiscreen solution for managing and distributing TV channels and interactive services on DVB, IPTV and OTT networks, for delivery to set-top boxes, tablets, PCs and smart phones. Speaking at a press event ...

NanoTech Expands VOD Library With Over 1000 Films And TV Episodes

Wall Street Journal

As part of the agreement, NanoTech will distribute the library on its OTT/IPTV network to customers around the world. The library features many great films including American Classics, Westerns, Horror, Musicals, Family, Cartoons, Comedy, Sci-Fi, Camp ...

IPTV the next market for telecoms operators

South China Morning Post

Internet protocol television (IPTV) may help telecommunications operators transform from traditional telephone service providers to multimedia content suppliers, industry experts say. IPTV is a system through which television content is delivered using ...

Cox Flirts With Fanhattan

Light Reading

Cox Communications Inc. is testing an IPTV service in Orange County, Calif. with the Fanhattan Fan TV set-top. Dubbed flareWatch, the service includes 97 channels and 30 hours of cloud DVR storage. It comes with a beta price of only US$34.99 per month.

BesTV acquires Premier League rights for six seasons

Chinadaily USA

China's leading Internet protocol television (IPTV) provider, Shanghai-based BesTV, announced on Monday that it has acquired the exclusive broadcast rights for the FA Premier League from 2013 to 2018 on new media television in the Chinese mainland.