

July 9, 2013, Daily News

Tuesday, 09 July 2013

Last Updated Wednesday, 10 July 2013

Infonetics: IPTV Upstarts Shaking Up Pay-TV Landscape

World Screen

In one year, KPN saw a jump of 77 percent in IPTV subscribers. GVT saw a 62-percent increase, and Rostelecom a 42-percent increase. Deutsche Telekom's Eastern European divisions are also gaining IPTV subscribers at a healthy rate, according to ...

IPTV upstarts in Brazil and Russia see early success

IPTV News

New IPTV services in major emerging markets like Brazil and Russia are enjoying notable success winning subscribers from their established pay-TV rivals, according to US firm Infonetics Research. Brazil's GVT has seen a 62% jump in subscribers last ...

Amino adds features to IPTV boxes

Communications, Engineering & Design Magazine

Amino Communications has added several multi-screen capabilities for its Aminet IPTV products when they are used in conjunction with partner Mineva's iTVFusion 5 video service management platform. Amino's A140 and A540 HD devices are now fully ...

BRICs add foundation to pay-TV as IPTV upstarts take share from incumbents

Rapid tv news

In its two latest reports, Pay-TV Subscriber Database and Pay-TV Services and Subscribers, Infonetics showed that cable, satellite and telco/IPTV pay-TV providers took in $287 billion worldwide in 2012, up 10% year on year, and pay-TV subscribers ...

Telcos need to collaborate more, compete less, study says

FierceIPTV

The report does not specifically call out IPTV as a new service that telcos could exploit, however the inference is that IPTV would be part of a new business model that net new revenues, net costs savings and net non-monetary benefits, as called out in ...

NanoTech Announces MMA Sponsorships

Fort Mills Times

"NanoTech has been making a big move into the Media sector this year as we prepare to launch multiple new OTT/IPTV Channels, services and consumer products," stated NanoTech CEO Jeffrey A. Foley. "Part of our growth is to build up our presence with ...

For AT&T, jumping through the Hulu hoops makes sense

FierceIPTV

Jim Barthold, FierceIPTV According to most reports, bidding is now complete and Hulu is going to step out and pick a new boss/owner. It could be a cable company--Time Warner Cable (NYSE: TWC) is supposedly in the running. It could be a satellite ...