

Aug. 17, 2013, Daily News

Saturday, 17 August 2013

Last Updated Saturday, 17 August 2013

From threat to opportunity: pay TV fights back Business Reporter New TV services such as IPTV and OTT have been available for some time now, but they are evolving. OTT companies are challenging linear operators and ... Vitec first with professional HEVC/H.265 decoder card WhaTech Vitec, a worldwide leader in advanced digital video solutions, has announced the first professional video decoder card to support the new HEVC/H.265 video ... IPTV Back on Track Light Reading (blog) Witness the new IPTV service being launched in Australia by Foxtel, Telstra Corp. Ltd. and News Corporation's joint TV subscription company, and aimed at ... Prism TV IPTV a bright spot for CenturyLink in second quarter FierceIPTV Continuing success in rolling out its Prism TV IPTV service was a bright spot in an otherwise downcast second quarter for CenturyLink (NYSE: CTL) which ...

Smart TV users 'twice as likely' to cancel pay TV News US broadband users with a connected TV are twice as likely to "cut the cord" from their pay TV subscriptions as their non-connected counterparts, new research ... FCC says IPTV providers should pay regulatory fees FierceIPTV The FCC has reached out and touched up IPTV providers for regulatory fees in its 2013 fee schedule adopted this week, even going so far as to add IPTV as a ... Cord cutters are probably just savvy pay TV shoppers FierceIPTV Jim Barthold, FierceIPTV I had a friend (and yes, I know that's a straight line) back in the days when long distance carriers were falling over themselves to get ... LG Uplus ends July with 1.36 mln IPTV subs Telecompaper (subscription) South Korean communications group LG Uplus ended July with 1.36 million IPTV subscribers after gaining 40,937 net new subscribers in the month.