

Sept. 30, 2013, Daily News

Monday, 30 September 2013

Last Updated Monday, 30 September 2013

Sydney Cricket Ground to roll out Wi-Fi network in 2014 Computerworld Australia The network will allow fans to view high definition IPTV and mobile video on their smartphones or tablets. They can also order food and drinks without having to ...

Broadpeak Unveils umbrellaCDN Light Reading RENNES, France -- Broadpeak, a leading provider of content delivery network (CDN) technologies and video streaming servers for cable, IPTV, OTT and hybrid ...

The revolution will be televised: watch it later on catch up IPTV TechTarget UK Eric Pickles' recent announcement of a ban on over-zealous council surveillance look at first glance like a bit of a blow for the IP security industry. Fair enough ...

Orange Spain revamps TV service

DigitalTVEurope.net

Orange will reportedly continue to support its legacy IPTV platform, which has about 65,000 subscribers, for now, but new subscribers will be offered the new ...

Multipath routers: the easy way to faster broadband?

PC Pro-by Nicole Kobie

Obviously for home users that's really cool for IPTV; even though it's a single stream, it'll be split across all your internet connections. For businesses it's even ...

Spanish pay-TV drops 500000 subs, PPV collapses

Advanced Television

All pay-TV operators have suffered a significant setback with Telefonica's IPTV service Movistar TV taking the worst with a fall of 158,685 to 630,324 subs.

China Digital TV's Super VOD System Deployed in China's ...

The Herald | HeraldOnline.com

... systems, which prevent unauthorized access to subscriber content across the country's digital cable, satellite, terrestrial, IPTV and mobile television networks.

BBC: iPlayer popularity continues to thrive

IPTV News

Following last week's announcement that new Storyville episodes were set to be premiered on the BBC iPlayer (as opposed to standard linear broadcast, which ...