

Aug. 12, 2014, Daily News

Tuesday, 12 August 2014

Last Updated Wednesday, 13 August 2014

Telstra acquires Ooyala

IPTV News

Telstra is set to acquire video streaming specialist Ooyala, with a $270 million investment that increases Telstra's ownership in Ooyala from 23% to 98%.

Cable's Video Subscribership Tanks and That's Just Fine

IT Business Edge (blog)

... of that product along with telephony, high speed data and IPTV. Those products are delivered to a variety of legacy and emerging devices. That's well known

Cisco Systems Fires Hundreds Of Israeli Employees In Streamlining ...

NoCamels - Israeli Innovation News

Cisco is the developer, manufacturer and marketer of products for communication networks, IPTV, data storage and security. ? Medigus Establishes Camera ...

Huawei, TM Collaborate on Next-Generation Fixed & 4G Network ...

PCC Mobile Broadband

... quickly implement bandwidth strategies, and launch additionalnew services, including IPTV and HDTV based on the fast broadband to score more commercial ...

The WWE Network is FINALLY available in Canada….sort of….

CANOE

Although Rogers and WWE's cooperative press release stated the WWE Network will be available on all major cable, satellite, and IPTV providers (which was ...

Austin AT&T GigaPower users finally get 1Gbps; firm discloses ...

TeleGeography

Pricing starts at USD70 a month for standalone internet on a one-year contract, with the options of adding on IPTV and telephone services. Regarding its ...

What Google's Android TV could mean for Roku & Apple

IPTV News

The arrival of Google's Android TV platform could well disrupt the landscape for streaming media players now dominated by Roku and Apple TV, potentially ...