

Sept. 5, 2014, Daily News

Friday, 05 September 2014

Last Updated Friday, 05 September 2014

Vodafone Germany announces Call+, Deezer, Drivexone, IPTV
Telecompaper (subscription)

Vodafone Germany announced the introduction of more new services at the IFA trade fair in Berlin, namely Call+, Deezer and Drivexone. Call+ is a mobile voice ...

Siemens Convergence Creators introduce OTT SWIPE® UX as a ...
WhaTech

It is just as important as content or pricing when it comes to success stories in OTT and IPTV markets. The only way to serve today's fiercely contested market is a ...

Vodafone Germany, Cisco to Develop All-in-One 4K Ultra-HD Set ...
PCC Mobile Broadband

... be an upgrade option for Vodafone Germany's existing hybrid television service which combines satellite, cable, IPTV and over-the-top (OTT) programming on ...

BuzzFeed: building video for the social web
IPTV News

“The wonderful thing about social is that you can't trick it,” explains Will Hayward, European VP for viral specialist extraordinaire (and increasingly significant ...

Presto boss: 'Netflix in Australia will be an inferior product'
MuMbrella

James made the remarks on a panel with Telstra head of IPTV Eric Kearley and CEO of Hoyts Damian Keogh. Moderator Kylie Merritt, digital director for the ...

Deutsche Telekom unveils hybrid DSL-LTE home router
Telecompaper (subscription)

... DSL and LTE as well as a hybrid-capable router. Telekom will initially offer the technology for internet only and late in 2015 expand it to include IPTV services.

Deutsche Telekom to add mobile cloud to IPTV
Broadband TV News

Germany's national telco Deutsche Telekom will expand its domestic IPTV platform Entertain by a virtual mobile video recorder. With the cloud recorder, ...