

June 29, 2015, Daily News

Monday, 29 June 2015

Last Updated Monday, 29 June 2015

Sky eyes 2016 for kids app launch

IPTV News

Development of the kids app for mobile devices is already underway. To build it Sky is partnering with award winning designers ustwo. Aimed at children aged ...

Rostelecom lifts regional subscriber base

Telecompaper (subscription)

Russian national operator Rostelecom announced that the number of its IPTV subscribers reached 500,000 in the Volga federal district. The figure jumped over ...

What we learnt about the future shape of Pay TV and broadcasting ...

Videonet

Strategies are still being formed but one thing was clear: Pay TV operators (and cable and IPTV providers in particular) are ready to welcome more content onto ...

du customers can charge games, applications from Google Play to ...

Zawya (registration)

We started operating in 2007, offering mobile and fixed telephony, broadband connectivity and IPTV services. Today, we serve more than 7.5 million individual ...

LG Uplus announces its vision to become world's top IoT provider by ...

Whowired Korea

The smallest mobile operator in South Korea also introduced a mobile video portal service which includes a mobile IPTV, about 100,000 movie titles, and more ...

Retrans fees could reach $6 per sub, broadcasters say

FierceCable

For cable, satellite and IPTV operators, it's a lot of coin, especially when you consider they paid nothing for broadcast signals as recently as five years ago.

Shaw Communications to Deploy Comcasts Cloud-Based X1

Zacks.com

Canadian cable TV behemoth Shaw Communications, Inc. (SJR - Analyst Report) has decided to abandon its own IPTV platform development project and ...