July 29 2008 Daily News
Tuesday, 29 July 2008
Last Updated Thursday, 31 July 2008

Opera joins Open IPTV Forum
Telecom Paper (subscription) - Houten,Netherlands
Opera Software has joined the Open IPTV Forum. The forum comprises key IPTV and TV stakeholders who jointly develop specifications to launch IPTV services ...

Miss World "gets with the programme" - IPTV ogling channel launched
Tech Digest - London,England,UK
Today could finally be the day that people bother working out what exactly IPTV is, and how it works, then find a way of getting it. ...

Road Wings' (RDWG) Funding Partner OneFi Technology Announces Its ...
MarketWatch - USA
Additionally, the network will allow for VoIP, IPTV and first run movie downloads. The network design allows for ready expansion, and Dr. Al Omran, ...

Telmex ready to launch IPTV
IPTV News - UK
July 29, 2008 - Mexican telco Telmex has stated that it is ready to launch IPTV in the country and is now only awaiting authorisation from the government to ...

Telenor Picks IPTV Solutions from Thomson for Scandinavian Deployments
TMCnet - USA
By Anil Sharma Telenor, a Scandinavian telecoms operator, recently selected IPTV solutions from Thomson (News - Alert) for deployment in Norway, ...

MTS Allstream faces IPTV maturity
FierceIPTV - Washington,DC,USA
By Dan O'Shea US telcos are starting to accelerate their IPTV strategies and generate excitement, but North America's real proving ground for IPTV is Canada ...

Opera Software joins Open IPTV Forum
IPTV News - UK
July 29, 2008 - Opera Software, a Norway-headquartered provider of cross-platform web-browser technology, has joined the Open IPTV Forum, a pan-industry ...

Ruckus Releases 802.11n HD IPTV System
Wi-Fi Planet - Darien,CT,USA
As the demand for high-definition IPTV increases, operators are faced with a much greater need for capacity. “Carriers are moving to high-def, which is much ...

Verizon FiOS: How They're Futurizing TV Faster Than AT&T and Big Cable
Gizmodo - USA
It's not full-fledged IPTV yet (since it's not delivered entirely as data packets, as I learned a few weeks ago), but Verizon is implementing a lot of the ...